Pet Rehoming Services and Assistance

Please understand that when a shelter is unable to take your pet in, it is not because the staff does not care. The local shelters and rescues in our area are doing their best to keep up with the constant increase of pet overpopulation. What other options are there besides owner surrender?

- Petfinder.com or Adopt-A-Pet.com:
 - If your pet is spayed/neutered we can host them on our page of Petfinder.com. When anyone is searching their local area for adoptable pets, your pet will be listed for them to see too. We need some photos of your pet, a description of the pet's personality, their age, what kind of home they would do best in, and a good way for interested adopters to contact you. The adoption process all goes through you, so you can decide requirements, adoption fee, and any other stipulations in the rehoming of your pet.
 - Need assistance getting your pet spayed/neutered? Contact us at (208)883-1166 to get a Spay and Neuter Assistance Program application to help with the cost of the procedure. The application is also available on our website!
 - Petfinder listing information can be emailed to our director at:
director@humanesocietyofthepalouse.org.
 - Make flyers:
 - HSoP has community boards in our entry way, and we would be happy to hang a rehoming flyer for you. This way anyone visiting our shelter can view your flyer, and contact you if interested. You can also check with local pet stores and veterinary clinics to hang these flyers too.
 - Facebook.com:
 - While Facebook has made it harder to rehome pets online, there are a few local groups that you can post on to help your pet find a new home. Be sure to read the group rules before posting!
 - Pullman Pets and Animals
 - Palouse Pets and Animals
 - LC Valley Pets
 - You can also post on your personal page and make the post shareable.
 - Other Shelters and Rescues:
 - Each shelter and rescue in our area works to serve their local community, and cannot always assist other communities with pet needs. It never hurts to check and see if a different organization could take your pet in sooner, but please do not expect an immediate solution.
